

ALLIANCE NEWS

Ilene Bosscher, MA, MDiv, LMFT, LPCC
GLMSA President
alliance@glms.org

Robert Hilgers, MD, at work with the Women's Global Cancer Alliance in Haiti. (Left to right) November life member honoree Ruth Ryan, Debi McDaniel, GLMS Alliance President Ilene Bosscher and President-Elect Jenny Jacob.

GLMS ALLIANCE UPCOMING EVENTS

November 2 – Women's Global Cancer Alliance dinner, 6 p.m.

November 9 – Men in the Alliance skeet shooting and wine tasting, noon

December 3 – Lexington Medical Society holiday brunch

November begins with a loud, resounding bang for the GLMS Alliance, as we hold our second Men in the Alliance event on Saturday, November 9. We will gather at noon that day at the world-class Elk Creek Hunt Club and Winery. The event will begin with skeet shooting, which will cost $85 if you bring your own gun or $20 more for a rental gun. This cost includes lunch, 50 targets, shells, golf cart, and the winery tour and tasting. It is sure to be a memorable event. We hope you can join us. RSVP to Men in the Alliance Chair Brian Briscoe, MD, at alliancemen@glms.org.

We will turn our attention to women's cancer around the world on Saturday, November 2, at 6 p.m. in the community room at Coach Gate Condominiums on Hubbards Lane. Please come for a relaxing catered dinner as we hear from Robert Hilgers, MD, president and CEO of the Women's Global Cancer Alliance.

He will share the wonderful accomplishments and the future goals of this organization. We will have a silent auction, with the proceeds going to WGCA. Check out the WGCA website at www.womensgca.org. Dominique Hendren, GLMSA health and wellness chair, will also be on hand to explain this club and how you can be a part of this group to accomplish your own goals and encourage others in the group. Please join us for this free evening of fellowship and fun where we will continue this year's tradition of honoring a life member each month. This month's honoree is Ruth Ryan, GLMS Alliance and KMA Alliance past president. She currently serves on the GLMSA board.

It is time to make your reservations for the Lexington Medical Society Alliance holiday brunch. This event raises thousands of dollars for the annual Allied Health scholarships. These funds are raised through donated raffle items, silent auction items, a bake sale and a flat fee from vendors who assemble throughout the lobby of the hotel. The GLMSA will be carpooling to Lexington to join the festivities on Tuesday, December 3. Tickets for the event are $25. For more information or to make your reservation, email alliance@glms.org. Don't forget the Lexington Alliance's cookbook, Creating a Stir, is a wonderful gift anytime of the year! The cookbook was published as a fundraising project to benefit Kentucky's children. You can order yours at www.creatingastir.com/ORDERFORM.htm.

Our holiday outreach will be for The Center for Women and Families in Louisville. The GLMSA clubs will be collecting items as well as the GLMSA board and all members in a friendly competition, "The President's Challenge," which is meant to encourage each one of us to serve one another and to give from our hearts. The GLMS Alliance wishes everyone a wonderful Thanksgiving holiday! LM

Note: Contact Ilene Bosscher at alliance@glms.org or 502-552-7319. To contact the Men in the Alliance Committee, email alliancemen@glms.org.